Two Takes on Summer

Tap into polished Riviera style—and the tropical punch flowing straight from Brazil.

THE RIVIERA

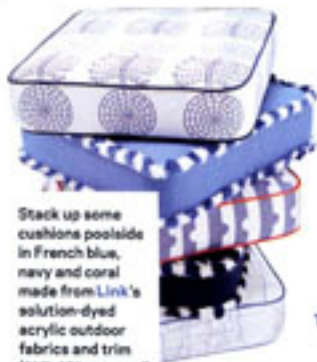

A fruity cocktail chills out in a Château Blue recycled-glass decanter ($150) and tumblers (#30 each) by Bertil Vallien for Kosta Boda. kostaboda.us.

The freshly renovated Maeght Foundation, in St.-Paul de Vence, France.

If you can't swing a visit to the Giacometti show at the Maeght Foundation, grow a mini sculpture park of your own, starting with the fiberglass Loop by Vladimir Kagan for Ralph Pucci (edition of twelve; from $15,000). ralphpucci.net.

Stack up some cushions poolside in French blue, navy and coral made from Link's solution-dyed acrylic outdoor fabrics and trim ($17-991 per yard). linkoutdoor.com.

For your dinner party at Le Club 55, send out Dempsey & Carroll invitations with envelopes lined in Schumacher's Trellis Print (upper left) or St. Tropez patterns (from $1,075 for 100). The two companies have just partnered to make any Schumacher fabric translatable to envelope liners. 877-750-1878.

The Sailor stainless-steel-and-rope stool by Thomas Boog for Pouenat Ferronnier ($9,490) will notch up the nautical look of any beach house. At Intérieurs, NYC, 212-343-0800.

Industrial designer Marc Newson takes his slick aesthetic offshore with an update of the Aquariva speedboat (below), coming next month from Riva (limited edition of twenty-two; $1.5 million). Through the Gagolian Gallery, riva@gagolian.com.
